

TASMANIA

Meditation and the Environment

Australian Christian Meditation Community Tasmania

11th March 2017
9.30-3.30

Sustainability Learning Centre
Olinda Grove, Mount Nelson 7007

Hear inspiring speakers and share meditation in community
A moment to listen, see and awaken to the wonder of nature
Discover your response to the call of the earth

Rev. Linda Chapman established Open Sanctuary on the NSW South Coast, a place of contemplative ecumenical gathering and creation spirituality, a space for intentional and inclusive friendship.

Distinguished Professor Jamie Kirkpatrick, geographer and conservation ecologist, measures his success in his discoveries that allow us to better protect the natural world. Jamie has been awarded the Eureka Prize for Environmental Research and an Order of Australia for service to forest and world heritage conservation.

Susan Murphy is a Zen teacher and author, making films and radio documentaries on social ecology. Susan wrote “Minding the Earth, Mending the World: The offer we can no longer refuse”

Register by 11th February for earlybird rate $50 ($65 later)
Contact Danielle Pacaud 0427 787 754 danipacaud@yahoo.com.au

Endangered Swift Parrots at Mount Nelson

“The marvel of having consciousness is entangled with the marvel of the universe itself”
John Tarant, Zen master

“We have entered a new phase of spirituality with an explicit understanding of our unity and connectedness from science and the process of globalisation and a new holiness is required of us .. a new consciousness”
Simone Weil, philosopher

“We find Christ in our hearts and then we find ourselves in him, and in him, in all creation.”
John Main, Benedictine father of the World Community for Christian Meditation wccm.org